Full Text Superzone of Message

- 1 [Text] Beijing, April 16 (XINHUA) -- The China UFO Research Organization (CURO) will hold a national conference next month in Beijing.
- 2 Wang Changting, acting chairman of the CURO, said that searching for creatures that might be living in other solar systems is one of the themes of the "1992 International Space Year".
- 3 More than 100 Chinese and overseas researchers will be present, making the activity the largest of its kind ever held in China.
- 4 Unidentified flying objects, also known as flying saucers, became a hot topic in China in the late 1970s. There have been over 5,000 sightings of unexplained aerial phenomena in China.
- 5 The first report of UFOs came from America, and there have been 400,000 reports of sightings worldwide.
- 6 In 1978 the United Nations called on the governments of all countries be on full alert for sightings and establish UFO investigation bodies.
- 7 China set up its own UFO investigation body, CURO, in 1978, and it is now a member of the China Association for Science and Technology, largely supported by the government. (endall) 160717 [REDACTED] 121604.002 [REDACTED]
